Just a digit of difference

"Hello, I'd like to reserve a court for tonight at 7....can we rent rackets or do we bring our own? Oh, you have shower facilities, don't you?"

Pause.

"I'm sorry lady but you've got the wrong number. This is a residence, not a tennis facility."

Longer pause.

"You're KID-ing. I know d---- well I dialed the right number. Now, we need a court tonight. My husband and I've been waiting ages to play at that nice indoor place you have.!"

"....LA-DEE! This is NOT the tennis courts place. You've dialed...."

The problem of incorrectly dialed numbers, spawned to some degree by some residences and businesses with similar phone numbers, is an age-old one.

And the fact that businesses having numbers like residences (who in many cases have had the number for a longer period of time) are plagued by wrong numbers, also, doesn't make it any easier. But in most cases the business has advertised the number extensively and could not afford to change or take a less-similar (to some residence) number.

"Say-pal, order me a giant pepperoni pizza to go. Okay? I'll be down soon's I leave the bar here...So-okay, huh??

Pause.

"Whaddiya' mean thish isn't the pizza place!

The two incidents described thus far are true. Only the names have been omitted.

There's also the case of the South County resident who has a phone number similar to that of a massage parlor.

And gets all manner and form of calls at all times of the day and night.

Then there's the newspaper near and dear to all members of this staff who once had a number similar to that of a well-know Livermore concern operated by the University of California.

Dick Piepenburg, manager of Pacific Telephone in Livermore, says the similar numbers or mis-dialing episodes rarely show up in the form of complaints at valley offices of PacTel.

Though commiserating with those having phone numbers similar to a pizza parlor, tennis arena or some other frequently-called business, Piepenburg says the only real solution is for the resident to change his phone number.

The one problem of any consequence the telephone company does run into, on numbers that is, involves reassigning of numbers.

Piepenburg comments that if a number used in the past is reassigned to another business or residence within three months, the chances are pretty good the new occupant will be fielding calls wanting the former occupant.

That's why Pacific Tel tries to allow a period of six months or more before reassigning

Copyright squabble settled

A limited supply of the Bicentennial "A Pictorial History of Pleasanton" is still available. The co- pyright book is available in either soft or hard bound cover.

A recent incident involving the Pleasanton Hotel plagiarism of "A Pictorial History of Pleasanton," a bicentennial effort, has been settled.

By mutual agreement, the hotel menu in which the material appeared is being discontinued A letter of apology has been received by the Bic entennial Committee from Terry Hufft, Pleasanton Hotel owner.

It was never the committee's intent, when the book was copyrighted to prevent future use of the material. However, the copyright was secured to prevent commercialization of a community service achievement.

The book, published the end of June, is totally free from advertising and contains sections covering, places, people and organizations.

Containing a wide selection of pictures from Pleasanton's past to the future, the seven and three quarters by ten and one-half inche historical publication is available in a soft and hard bound cover.

Of the 2,000 soft bound copies printed, less than 300 copies remain to be sold. Only 100 copies of the hard cover were printed as "special commemorative" numbered editions. Purchasers of this edition will have their names placed on a list which will be submitted to the National Archives.

According to the committee, there will not be a second printing of the pictorial history book.

Copies of either edition are available for sale at The Gingham Corner, Neal and Main Streets; Pleasanton Chamber of Commerce, Neal Street and Sage Books located in the Valley Plaza Center, Hopyard.

Further information on the book may be directed to Lee Ann McFaddin at 846-1347.

Murray trustees weighing future

(This is the fourth of 10 articles to appear during the next three weeks concerning seventh-eighth grade housing in the Murray School District and attendant enrollment and construction problems.)

Hemmed-in to a degree by state standards for construction and confronted with declining enrollments and dwindling avenues of relief, the oft-repeated action is to strike out with a "new plan" or procedure.

The Murray School District finds itself in this position.

Whether this is the best route to go will eventually be determined by the board, after pouring over reports and recommendations from the Citizens Advisory Committee, demographer Alan Richards and additional data and commentary from individual citizens and district administration.

A chief complaint of "status quo" in the Murray district is that all seventh and eighth graders are not getting the same quality education in similar atmospheres.

It is noteworthy that teachers at Dublin School voted overwhelmingly in favor of maintaining the grade level organization now in vogue (One 7-8 school, three K-8, five K-6).

Dublin is the one school that has spawned a citizens group to monitor the findings and decisions of the CAC and board. The school had previously been mentioned as a prime subject if conversion is recommended.

Retention of the current grade level organization could prove most detrimental to Donlon and Lydiksen, where portables have become fixtures to relieve crowded conditions.

The only immediate alternative would be to add portables....or short-circuit the status quo and bus more students to schools with empty classrooms north of Highway 580.

Aside from Donlon, which admittedly is ignoring a sizable portion of total district enrollment, the current organizational setup has worked pretty well.

With few exceptions, parents and children at Frederiksen, Fallon, Cronin and Murray are content with quality of education, faculty and general surroundings.

Virtually an interested spectator to the conversion versus status quo studies are the parents, staff and students at Wells Intermediate on Penn Drive.

Wells is most frequently the measuring stick for those proponents of converting a district school to solely seventh-eighth grade use.

The thirty-five teachers at Wells responding to the survey on conversion/status quo were nearly unanimous (34 conversion, 1 no opinion) for the district converting another school to seventh-eighth grade use.

What parents in that particular area favor won't be known for another two weeks.

An enrollment of 758 is projected for Wells in 1976-77, decreasing to 632 by 1979-80 if current projections hold true.

Taking a cue from these projections, one could figure "openings" for another 120 to 150 junior high students (at Wells) by 79-80.

Projections worked up by demographer Richards show the district losing enrollment for the next three years and quite possibly into the '80s.

In upcoming articles, focus will be on the CAC and its chairman Robert Scheppler as well as the Residents-In-Action from the Dublin School area.

SR school's completion threatened

SAN RAMON— Unless the two-months old strike of electricians is resolved by Monday, the San Ramon Valley Unified School District will have to develop contingency plans for Greenbrook School, originally scheduled to open for the first time Wednesday, Sept. 8.

Superintendent Allan Petersdorf said Friday the school is basically finished, but installation of lights and heating outlets has not been completed.

If electricians are not back on the job at the central district school by next week, Petersdorf said alternate plans for housing 612 K-6 students who are scheduled to attend Greenbrook would have to be considered.

Students for the school will come from the Baldwin, Montair, Vista Grande and Twin Creeks school areas.

This could mean busing those students to the schools they would have attended before Greenbrook was constructed.

Students in the Greenbrook attendance area should register at the Education Center, 699 Old Orchard Dr. in Danville, until the office facilities are completed.

All elementary school offices will open Monday, Aug. 23. Parents should register their youngsters in kindergarten through Grade 6 at the school serving their neighborhoods. Those in doubt regarding the proper school should call the Education Center at 837-1511, extension 221.

Neil Armstrong, Walt Disney and Country Club serve the elementary-age students in San Ramon.

All three expect increased enrollments at the outset with student populations at the southern section schools increasing through at least December.

Enrollment figures for 75-76 and the projected figures for each of the schools is as follows:

Neil Armstrong, 579 to 638; Walt Disney, 639 to 645; Country Club, 657 to 668.

California High School, with grades 7 through 12, expects 1,465, up 269 from June. The school on Broadmoor will have a full senior class this year, as compared to 75-76 when 76 graduated.

This will be the final year for seventh and eighth grade students at Cal High as Pine Valley Intermediate School is scheduled to open in September of 1977.

Next meeting of the San Ramon school board is set for Tuesday, Sept. 7 at the Education Center in Danville.

Pleasanton okays music lessons in home

PLEASANTON — The charming image of the piano teacher rehearsing her pupils on the musical scales fits with this town's image, but most of the city's music teachers have failed to register as required by a city ordinance.

That fact came to light last week at the planning commission when Carole Maxson applied for a use permit to teach 75 music students in her home.

The planning commission agreed to give her a one year permit, but suggested gently that she work toward building her clientele to 100 or 125 students so that renting a studio downtown would be economically feasible.

Maxson teaches up to six students at one time on an electronic piano with seven sets of earphones. Because of this electronic assistance, she teaches no more than 19 hours a week. The earphones insure that there will be no noise for the neighbors.

"I'd hate to be in a room with six acoustic pianos going," remarked Maxson's husband, who spoke in her behalf.

Maxson said that the city has many music teachers, nons of them with use permits for their instruction. City ordinance requires permits because of the neighborhood traffic involved.

None of Maxson's neighbors has complained about traffic; in fact, many are happy to have a music teacher in the neighborhood.

Besides raising the musical awareness of their pupils, local music teachers serve the community by playing for community musicals, playing organ at local church services, and entertaining the Senior VIP club, said Maxson.

Twelve of Maxson's students are adults who drive to lessons and others are children who are picked up by parents. There are no more than 24 cars a week coming to the Maxson residence at 795 Mirdador Court.

Planning Commissioner Bill Jamieson, who lives in the neighborhood, said that "there are more cars in one burst to the Catholic Church than here (at Maxson's) in a couple of weeks."

"Piano teaching in the home is consistent with Pleasanton's image, but this has gotten big," said Commisisioner Dave Shepherd. "I encourage you to look toward a studio."

Judge rules mistrial in battery case

LIVERMORE — Judge Al Lewis declared a mistrial in the case of Bobby Lee Langford, accused of resisting arrest and battery on a police officer stemming from an incident which occurred a few months ago on Enos Way.

Langford allegedly committed the actions after police put him under arrest for exhibition of speed in his vehicle. Two other men, William Bruce and Nick Chamberlain, were also arrested when they allegedly helped Langford resist arrest.

The jury began its deliberations at 4 p m and returned at 11:45 p.m. to announce prospects looked poor that it would reach a unanimous decision. Then Judge Lewis declared a mistrial and set a hearing next Friday for the next step in the case

Deputy District Attorney said Larry Cowan who tried the case will recommend to his superior that a new trial be convened on the same charges. The only other possibilities are that the defendant will plead guilty or the charges will be dropped.

Burned out Livermore family says 'thanks'

LIVERMORE — "Mother and I have been choked up with tears in our eyes all week."

Theresa Zearing and her mother, Harriet Waltjen, want to say "Thank you" to all the kind people who heard about the disastrous Adelle Street fire that lefl the Zearings last week without clothes or household possessions — and responded with generous donations for the stricken family.

"I couldn't believe there were so many nice people in Livermore!" Mrs. Waltjen exclaimed. "People have given us clothes and toys; furniture; bunk beds and bedding and dishes and even a refrigerator!"

"We'd go to the store," Theresa reports, "and when we came home there would be a bundle of children's clothes on the doorstep." She told of a 92 - year - old retired doctor who sent $5 and a woman who gave them half of her little boy's wardrobe.

A dresser "in beautiful condition" was also donated. "The phone has been ringing from 8 o'clock in the morning, the day the story was in the pappr (Aug. 5) right up until a few minutes ago," Mrs. Waltjen said Friday afternoon.

The Zearings were burned out of their two - bedroom home at 364 Adelle St. last Wednesday morning, apparently when one of the children started playing with a cigarette lighter while their mother was in the garage washing clothes.

The children's bedroom was completely engulfed in flames and everything in the house was either burned up or damaged beyond salvage from the intense heat and greasy black smoke.

The building was insured and will be repaired in the next six weeks. But the Zearings had no insurance on their possessions and now face the formidable task of replacing everything, from the brand - new Mr. Coffee maker down to two - year - old Starr's diapers and baby clothes.

The toaster, blender and other appliances were on a counter against a wall that backed on the children's bedroom — so the plastic was melted and the motors destroyed in all the kitchenware.

The Zearings have recently discovered their living room furniture is damaged beyond repair, their carpet is destroyed and their own bedroom furniture and clothes are unusable.

They're currently staying with Theresa's parents, Walter and Harriet Waltjen at 5670iOakmont Circle on Livermore's northside. The Waltjens also have four other children living at home.

"Crowded and noisy is a good description," Theresa acknowledges — but quickly adds they're just glad to be safe.

Her husband, Bill, was in military reserve training in Missouri at the time of the disaster and the Army, after initially promising to rush him home, decided the emergency didn't warrant releasing him from his duties. Bill is now back at his job.

The family contacted The Times on Friday to issue a public "Thanks" to all the people, many of them anonymous, who have helped.

As Theresa puts it: "All you hear about is robbers and rapists and murderers — and then, people come through like this."— by Pat Kennedy

Emergency Medical System

County seeks more efficient facility use

It's not that Alameda County is lacking in hospitals, personnel and medical services, say representatives of the Emergency Medical Services (EMS) system, but "they need to be coordinated into an efficient and effective system to meet the goal of reducing the number of unnecessary deaths from heart attacks, drownings, poisoning, auto accidents — or even major disasters."

To cope with the problem of an uncoordinated, "non-system," the county took a 1974 federal grant to develop EMS. The studies have been successful and the Association of Bay Area Governments (ABAG) recently spread an another $1 million among its nine counties.

Alameda County gets $208,000 and neighboring Contra Costa County $130,000.

"The EMS plan is aimed at developing services which are cost-effective, utilizing all existing resources in a coordinated rather than competitive manner so that all citizens of Alameda County will receive high quality emergency medical care," say the representatives.

New hospitals and burgeoning staffs will not be the result, they say , but rather the coordinated effort with existing facilities and an aware and trained public.

The City of Seattle, for example, is said to have the finest emergency medical services system in the country.

It was not done simply by making new, more efficient medical services available to the community, although rapid response is part of the program, but by training the public to handle emergencies.

As a result, the death rate from heart attacks, drownings and poisonings has been slashed.

Locally, the system includes programs to inform the public whom and how to call for help in an emergency.

Alameda County currently is negotiating contracts with the Heart Association and Red Cross to teach the general public to handle cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR), an emergency life-saving skill needed in cases were breathing and heartbeat have stopped.

The EMS also calls for development of mobile intensive care programs on a pilot basis. The units will be staffed with highly trained paramedics and will provide high levels of care at the scene and en route to the hospital.

Staffing will come from emergency medical technicians.

According to the plan, an ambulance will reach the victim within 10 minutes in an urban area, and in no more than 30 minutes in a rural area.

Each ambulance will have two emergency medical technicians, both with a minimum 96 hours training.

Concurrently, the system will require well equipped and staffed hospital emergency departments.

Hospitals throughout the county have been classified according to the level of care they can provide. Arrangements will have to be made to transfer quickly patients with special problems like burns or spinal cord injuries.

EMS officials are dividing the county into ambulance service areas and cataloging hospitals. The valley probably will be placed in its own district, one spokesman said, where local ambulances will respond in conjunction with local hospitals.

A recent pilot program in Fremont-Newark that coordinated ambulance response and hospital preparation proved successful.

The EMS system will be coordinated through the county's Central Medical Emergency Dispatch (CMED), which already is in operation dispatching ambulances and coordinating communications between ambulances and hospitals.

CMED will be tied into the county's "911" emergency telephone system sometime next year. Alameda County will have the most up to date emergency telephone system in the nation when it is finished.

Dialing 911 will run the call through computers instantly, putting callers in contact with the closest point of help. The number will not be limited to medical emergencies, but is to be used for police and fire calls as well.

Phone lines currently do not correspond to political boundries and an emergency call placed in Dublin in Alameda County is answered in Walnut Creek in Contra Costa County.

The Alameda County Health Care Services Agency is developing the EMS system, and is responsible for coordinating and monitoring the program.

Contra Costa County Supervisors are studying a proposal to start an educational program at Las Mendanos College in the eastern county.

Under the proposal, costs will be born by the trainees or their sponsoring agency and not the county's general fund, according to Antioch City Councilwoman Louise Giersch.

Sorry! Wrong number

a number.....or until the "old" telephone book is out of use.

"Hi sweets! Will Vicky be free at 10 tonight? I need a little rub down, ya' know. Somebody with good hands and...ya' know."

Long, long pause.

"Dammit, Mack, this isn't the Spicy Tiger massage parlor!!

Piepenburg also put to route the notion that businesses automatically get the easy - to - remember numbers. Not so....unless they definetly specify they want same.

Otherwise, the occupant of an apartment or single family home is just as likely to get an "easy number" as a business.

The affable Pacific Tel manager, whose territory includes Livermore, Pleasanton, and Sunol, adds, in another vein, that number of new commercial and residential phones continues to increase, though at a much reduced rate from five or six years ago.

Comparing December of 1975 with June of '76, new lines installed in residences increased by 827 to 27,477. For commercial, it increased by just 100 to 24,096.

Dick didn't add if this included any new pizza parlors, tennis arenas or massage parlors!

Supervisor wins key assignment

Alameda County Bureau

OAKLAND — Fred Cooper, chairman of the county board of supervisors, has been appointed chairman for collective bargaining of the National Association of Counties Labor - Management Relations Steering Committee, NACO president Dan Lynch announced last week.

The committee, one of 12 steering committees which form the policy making arm of the NACO, recommends legislative action concerning the rights, responsibilities and procedures of public employement relations.

Cooper personaly handled the final negotiations in the county's recent seven-week employes strike, the longest public employes strike in state history.

During the dispute he said he believed in the public employes' right to strike, but said the service employes union's demands were n&t acceptable to the supervisors.

The NACO committee which Cooper now will head focuses on collective bargaining, public pension plans, affirmative action, occupational health and safety, labor protective agreements, social security coverage and workers compensation.

Its top priority this year will be to emphasize state and local control and responsibility in collective bargaining, Lynch also announced.

Planners hold action on home business case

PLEASANTON — Deryl Houser will have one more meeting to appeal the Zoning Administrator's decisions that his handicrafts home occupation at 4545 Second St violates the city's ordinances, the planning commission decided last week.

Houser was scheduled for a hearing at the prior meeting on his appeal of the Zoning Administrator's refusal to grant him a home occupation permit. He failed to show then and the item was continued to the last meeting where he failed again to put in an appearance. One commissioner suggested continuing the items indefinitely.

Planning Director Roebert Harris said that "if he never has to come in, he could just continue with the use." Deputy City Attorney Harvey Levine pointed out that Houser is in violation of the zoning ordinance. If he doesn't have to show up for a planning commission meeting, he will continue to be in violation.

Houser deserves one more chance, said Commissioner David Shepherd Levine said if he doesn't show the next time, the city could cite him for the violation "to motivate the proper behavior".

The commission decided to do the same thing for Betty Navarette's adverse appeal of an the Zoning Administrator's decision to deny her request to conduct a janitorial service at 1546 Calle Santiago.

SR hills fire unit in doubt

SAN RAMON — The East Bay Regional Park District board is resigning itself to the probability that they won't get a Conservation Corps firefighting unit in the hills west of Danville - San Ramon.

Park district officials have been asking for state acquisition of an abandoned Bollinger Canyon NIKE missile site west of Danville and San Ramon. Placing a fire fighting contingent in that area would protect both EBRPD and East Bay Municipal Utilities District land, EBRPD leaders reasoned.

At present, the nearest Conservation Corps outpost is at Ben Lomond in the Santa Cruz mountains.

Oakland and Berkeley city officials joined EBRPD in the request, agreeing that their heavily populated cities would be threated is fire broke out in the hills EBRPD has already had almost twice as many fires this year as last, with the dry season far from over.

But the park district has received a letter from Mrs. Claire Dedrick, state resources secretary, saying that Lewis Moran, director of the state Department of Conservation, and Larry Richey, state forester, "do not agree with you that acquisition of the NIKE site (Bollinger) is necessary to provide adequate fire protection for adjacent or nearby areas."

EBRPD general manager Richard Trudeau called the response "complicated, mystifying and contradictory

Pleasanton man claims record

A complete swimming pool in six days

PLEASANTON — Some people will do anything to get into the Guiness Book of World Records

A clown roller skated 150 miles non - stop behind a California Highway Patrol Car. Innumerable squads of young boys have played catch non - stop for 72 or more hours, right here in the valley, with witnesses for the whole period so that affadavits could be filed with the Guiness folks who publish the book in England.

But Larry Stepp may have the most unusual category of all, if he can get it past the Guiness editors.

Stepp claims the world record for installation of a full sized swimming pool in a back yard, set in this city Friday. The total elapsed time from digging the hole to plastering the walls and filling it with water was six days. It breaks his previous record of seven days for a pool in Fremont and nine days for a pool in Pleasanton.

Six days is slow time for swimming in an Olympic contest, but good time for building the pool. Typically it takes two or three weeks to two or three months, depending on the builder. Most build in high numbers, so the efforts caused by shifting crews around slow down all the jobs. Stepp tackles only three pools at a time. staggering the starting date on each by three days.

It's work, work, work by the crews which makes the world record, said Stepp. He finds it helpful to give crews a little extra motivation when going for the Big One by providing extra rations of beer and 7 - Up.

Stepp lives in Pleasanton and builds pools under the name American Pools. He doesn't advertise, preferring to get his customers by word of mouth — and perhaps from news stories and world record attempts.

It's enough to inspire a reporter to try for a new Guiness world record himself: Commercial plugs in a news story.

Mock earthquake disaster set to test Alameda County defense

An earthquake simulation exercise for Alameda County government and its 13 cities will be held Aug. 27 to test emergency plans, staffing response and back-up communications. Testing will be from 7:30 a.m. to noon.

The exercise scenarios given to each jurisdiction will simulate a high - magnitude earthquake with widespread damage and numerous casualties. Specific local problems will be posed throughout the county Government officials will have to meet challenges of evacuation, relocation, mass medical care, transporatation and sanitation

The exercise is strictly simulation. There will be no actual movement of personnel or supplies. But within each city Emergency Operations Center (generally a police station, fire station or city hall) and the county's facility (Sheriff's Eden Township Substation, 2000 150th Ave., San Leandro), the problem solving techniques, decision making, flow of information and simulated action will be as realistic as possible.

Bicycle moto-cross slated in Livermore

LIVERMORE — A bicycle moto-cross has been scheduled for Aug. 21 by the Livermore Area Recreation and Park District.

Registration and a practice session have been set for 8:30 to 10 a.m. Races begin at 10:15 a.m. at the course in Robert Livermore Park on East Avenue, adjacent to Jackson Avenue School.

Tax bill by Mori waits pen

Assemblyman Floyd Mori's bill allowing a court to divide a divorced couple's tax liability between the two spouses was passed by the Senate last week and awaits Governor Jerry Brown's signature.

The State Franchise Tax Board can collect the full amount owed from either spouse, something Mori feels is discriminatory no matter which spouse is billed by the Franchise Tax Board.

"Today incomes are increasingly a joint responsibility in a marriage and, so naturally, tax liabilities are too. This bill is an attempt to recognize this and insure that a divorced person will pay only his fair share of the tax liability of his former marriage," said Mori.

Mori's interest in the problem grew out of an incident last November when the Franchise Tax Board withdrew the amount owed by a divorced mother, Sharon Smith of Livermore, from the bank account of her son, Rodney.

MD volunteers needed for annual telethon

Volunteers are needed in the San Francisco pledge center to help with the Jerry Lewis Labor Day muscular dystrophy Telethon. Volunteers are needed to answer phone, take pledges, type, tabulate and deliver messages and supplies.

The Telethon will be broadcast in the San Francisco area by KTVU Channel 2 from the Hyatt Hotel on Union Square over the Labor Day Weekend, Sept 5 and 6.

Jerry Lewis, MDA National Chairman, will host the show which originates from Del Webb's Hotel Sahara, Las Vegas The spectacular will be seen on a network of nearly 200 stations, including outlets in Hawaii, Alaska, Puerto Rico and Guam.

Last year the Telethon raised over $18.8 million for the fight against muscular dystrophy and related disorders. MDA supports over 350 neuromuscular research projects in laboratories throughout the United States and in 17 foreign countries and has established a network of ten major university - based research and clinical centers to accelerate its efforts to find cures of effective treatments for the many neuromuscular diseases covered by its programs. In addition, the health agency maintains a total of 163 free diagnostic and treatment clinics.

Volunteers interested in working at the San Francisco pledge center should call MDA at (415) 433-3313

Joint council-planners meet set to smooth communications

PLEASANTON — There have been some mighty incongruities between planning commission decisions and city council decisions on zoning matters lately, so Mayor Robert Philcox has decided to call a joint meeting of the two groups to see where the problem, if any, lies.

Planning Commission Chairman Walt Wood took up the theme, too, Wednesday night at the planning commission.

Philcox observed Monday night at the city council meeting that the city council has been getting many appeals of planning commission zoning decisions. "We've changed a lot of their decisions," said Philcox. "If they don't know how we are thinking and feeling, maybe a meeting is in order."

Wood on Wednesday night said it appears to be a matter of the planning commission's concern for aesthetics versus the city council's concern for the political aspects of the appeals.

Planning Commissioner Dave Shepherd said he didn't mind a few reverses, but "our batting average is way off".

"Or their batting average is off," commented Deputy City Attorney Harvey Levine.

"Yes, they seem farther apart than we are," Wood joked in apparent reference to recent dissension on the city council over the Cheese Factory sewer discharges and such dividers as the 3-2 vote on the city budget.

Planning Director Robert Harris said he will set up a joint meeting between the two panels soon.

On another item Wood noted the barbed wire is still up at the new post office's fence Harris said he "conteacted the post office the other day about it."

"Did they contact you back," asked Wood. After some disucussion about the fabled speed of today's postal serivice, it was agreed there will be more contact on the issue.

Student signups invited

SAN RAMON — California High School on Broadmoor is accepting new student registrations on a continuing basis for all students grades 7-12.

At the time of registration the student is given an appointment to meet with a counselor for programming.

Since procedures vary slightly among the schools, parents should inquire at the school regarding school hours, reading schedules (K-6 schools), and assignmenc of students tosteachers.

Bus schedules will be made available as soon as they are developed by the transportation department.

Intermediate school counselors in the district will be available foriregistering and scheduling new students beginning Monday, Aug. 23.It is recommended that parents call the school on or after that date to make an appointment with the counseling staff.

New high school students in the Monte Vista attendance area should obtain registration materials in the counseling office at the school Sophomores, juniors and seniors will be scheduled on Tuesday, Aug. 31 and freshmen on Wednesday, Sept. 1.

Visiting Japanese bid adieu

DUBLIN — The twenty - five Japanese students visiting here under auspices of the Homestay program will bid goodbye to their hosts at a Sayonara dinner and program Tuesday night.

The potluck dinner begins at 6 in the Dublin High School cafeteria with a program following about 7:30. The latter will include a demonstration of judo, a Japanese tea ceremony, piano selections and games.

Students will leave from Dublin High Thursday for the return flight to Japan.

Up $16.4 million

CC budget meet Tues.

MARTINEZ — A county budget hearing will be held by the Contra Costa County Board of Supervisors Tuesday at 2 p m Public comments will be heard on the 1976-1977 proposal.

Copies of the proposal and the message are available at all county libraries They may also be reviewed in the office of the auditor-controller in the county finance building, 625 COurt St., Martinez and the clerk of the board of supervisors in the county administration building, 651 Pine St., Martinez.

A $16.4 million (8%) increase will be represented over the 1975-76 budget of $206.6 million. This shows the climbing cost of operating county government at the same level of service as in the past fiscal year.

Despite cutting back 80 positions from the county workforce, increases in employe salaries, benefits, welfare and medical costs continue pushing budget needs upward Also, state and federal revenues have either been reduced or will stand still while costs continue rising.

All departments have been asked to review their priorities and slash expenses.

Almost half of the budget is slated for public assistance programs, including welfare grants, medical assistance and public employment programs Most of them are mandated and reimbursed by federal or state government.

Public protection is recommended for $41.7 million, health and sanitation for $36 8 million. General and administrative expenses are proposed at $18.9 million, public works $13.7 million and education and recreation 5.2 million.

By law, the board must adopt the budget no later than Aug. 30. The auditor-controller then calculates tax rates and the board fixes and levies them.

Lori McCoy will don her bright hostess gown for her fourth Muscular Dystrophy Carnival at Dublin next Saturday. She has trained Greg Abrew and Bruce Greek as Game Masters.

Small carnival is big help

By REINA WHITNEY

Twelve-year-old Lori McCoy of Dublin has set Aug 21 as the date for her fourth annual Muscular Dystrophy Carnival at her home on Brighton Way (7275) from 11 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

She was just nine years old when she saw the backyard carnival kits advertised on television and thought it would be a good idea. "It was a chance," says Lori, "to do something for a really good cause."

With encouragement and support from her parents, Bob and Sharon, and "some very nice friends," Lori has contacted merchants for prizes, cupcakes and popcorn for the past four years.

lifestyle

Thanks to her Dad they'll have a Wheel of Fortune this year, and even a Dump Tank which Lori expects will be the highlight of the carnival.

Even her grandfather has gotten into the act and made a bean bag toss for her. There will also be a penny pitch, horse racing and pot ball toss which youngsters will only pay a nickel or a dime to enjoy.

A ten-cent donation will also entitle those attending to participate in drawings for more than 30 prizes donated this year by 25 merchants in the Dublin area. Free balloons are promised to every child who comes to the carnival.

The carnival takes up all the available space surrounding the McCoy home — front yard, backyard and garage are all involved.

Lori hopes to top her profits of $37 16 made at last year's carnival. To date she has been able to donate $74.29 to Muscular Dystrophy through her efforts and those of her friends whom she calls her Game Masters: Rene, Lori and Derek Shimada, Greg and Kevin Abrew, Bruce Greek and Jackie Collins. No one in the group is over 13.

The national program of back yard carnivals was responsible for raising $1.4 million for the Muscular Dystrophy Association last year, with $38,000 of that money raised in the Bay Area alone Children such as Lori McCoy are making a genuine contribution toward eradicating a disease which still has no known cure, and hardly an effective treatment.

Muscular dystrophy, according to the encyclopedia, is caused by genes that do not work normally. Although females pass on the disease, it most often strikes the male. The disease attacks the muscles of arms and legs, eventually involving functions of the heart and lungs.

A patient is confined to a wheelchair by the age of 12, and may die before the age of 20.

Jerry Lewis, movie and television personality, is perhaps the most notable contributor for the cause of muscular dystrophy. As national chairman of the MDA drive, his yearly Labor Day Weekend telethons have been responsiple for contributing millions of dollars to help victims of this dreaded disease. (The telethon is aired this year Sept. 5 and 6 on KTVU, Channel 5 at 6 p.m.)

The back yard carnivals mainly help in supporting the Jerry Lewis summer and winter camps for children stricken with muscular dystrophy. Bay Area children with MD attend Camp Young Judea at St. Helena where they enjoy a swimming pool, wheelchair races, and other closely supervised activities designed especially for them.

Pat McCormick, master of ceremonies for KTVU, is the Bay Area's local chairman for the Muscular Dystrophy Association He publicizes the backyard carnivals for the local youngsters. His autographed picture also appears in all the carnival kits which include complete information on how to plan a carnival, posters for decoration, games to play and an envelope in which to return the proceeds

Last summer 5,000 carnivals were held throughout the Bay Area by children, with proceeds ranging from $1 for the youngest to as much as $300 for older and more ambitious sponsors. This year all children who sponsor carnivals will be eligible for a drawing for a trip to Mexico to include their parents and another member of their family They may also appear on a local segment of the Jerry Lewis Show.

Any child, regardless of age, interested in receiving a backyard carnival kit may write to the Muscular Dystrophy Backyard Carnivals, P.O. Box 4455, San Francisco, Calif., 94102.

Valley Jaycee clubs help to strike out muscular dystrophy

The first annual 24-hour Bowl-a-thon to benefit Muscular Dystrophy will be sponsored Aug. 28 and 29 by the Livermore and Pleasanton Jaycees in conjunction with the Professional Central California Bowlers (PCCB).

Two members of the PCCB will bowl the entire 24-hour period beginning at 2 p.m. Saturday at the Granada Bowl in Livermore. Individuals, groups or businesses are asked to make a donation based on the bowlers performance.

Among many donation options are one cent per pin (estimated $150), five cents per strike (estimated $21), or one dollar for each 200 game bowled (estimated $45), and merchandise prizes.

Spectators will be admitted to the bowl-a-thon free of charge, and a variety of activities is planned for the two-day event. Bowlers may join the pros Saturday night and Sunday for a donation to the cause.

The Muscular Dystrophy Association will be presented with a check for the total donations on television Sept. 5 during the Jerry Lewis Telethon on KTVU, Channel 5. Donations will fund national research for a cure for muscular dystrophy, as well as aij in the daily care of the 124 patients in the local district.

For information contact Glenn Shaftoe at 846-2574, or stop by Amador Linen Supply in Pleasanton for donor forms.

ONE VIEW

Cancer

Laetrile hysteria illustrates the sorry state of America's cancer fight. Laetrile is the so called cancer remedy extracted from the kernels of apricots.

Boosters claim the drug supplies a vitamin necessary to prevention of the disease. It also emits tiny doses of cyanide to combat cancerous cells, they say.

Not so, according to opponents within the American Medical Association. They charge that Laetrile is a hoax — a useless substance that carries no more remedy than a quart of chocolate ice cream.

In fact, many doctors view Laetrile as a threat to patients, a quack's recipe that delays cancer victims from receiving treatment they desperately need.

The drug has become a spinoff issue, blurring the course of cancer research, leaving patients with one more trauma to confront.

Laetrile is illegal in the United States. But since more acceptable modes of treatment often fail, frantic sufferers often turn to the contraband drug. This has created a booming black market for self proclaimed do-gooders, bootlegging physicians and even the Mafia.

Cancer victims, with enough physical and emotional stress to begin with, are forced to skulk behind closed doors. They're like junkies seeking a fix, or a 1920's speakeasy manager shopping for hootch. They are prey to a terrifying illness It is too much that they must also be the pawns of profiteering smugglers.

Of course there are alternatives But surgery and chemotherapy can be as awful as the disease Patients suffer from nausea, bloating and loss of hair. Side-effects strip them of dignity. When that goes, there's no reason left to fight the encroaching sickness.

In light of established treatments, it's not surprising that patients grasp at miracle cures. Especially after hearing testimonials from cancer victims who say laetrile saved their lives

There is an El Sobrante woman who nearly died from cancer. She travelled to the hospital by ambulance for chemothearapy. It did not help. Then she found a renegade doctor in Albany who prescribed laetrile. She says it cured her.

A fellow in San Jose has a similar story to tell.

The medical establishment says it is willing to research the drug if proven successful in tests with animals. It claims that no positive results can be produced, however.

So laetrile remains off limits pending clinical proof. But victims heartales of miraculous recovery. Heartsick at the failures of their own doctors they pump up sagging hopes with the contraband drug.

Some check into Tijuana hospitals where there is no government ban. Others slip hesitantly into the office of a doctor recommended by a friend. A few munch endlessly on dried apricot seeds.

It is a pitiable situation.

Wide coverage was given last week to a Peninsula couple crusading for laetrile. They have turned it into a question of First Amendment rights concerning freedom of choice.

They are joined by a bold physician who prescribes the drug. Reports came out recently that organized crime has entered the field, purchasing stores of the substance in Mexico, distributing it at a profit in the states.

They all make money.

Everybody but the mobsters denies that the cash is important.

But while laetrile is banned, and while cancer research lurches from discovery to failure, there will be a lucrative black market.

The customers can't be blamed For a cancer patient, sanity is gone without hope for cure. Even if that cure is a dried up seed.

One physician suggests legalization for laetrile. He says the drug is useless, and when patients discover the truth. it will fade from existence.

If nothing else, it will spare long suffering victims from further degradation.

The line they will feed us

Let's agree on one thing: There is no "one clear answer" to the gigantic sewer mess that today confronts nearly all communities, particularly those inland and upstream.

The best we can hope for is that all powers get their facts together, qrovide the public with the clearest possible choice, and then let the votes fall where they may. That is what the Valley's sewer - laden populace might hope for in the final wording of that LAVWMA outfall line.

There appears little doubt the issue will appear on the . November ballot There is little agreement that ballot should be worded.

Some among us prefer "the cautious approach" ... a multiple - choice ballot that would let the people pick and choose, industrial capacity or no, that sort of thing It would serve only to compound the confusion of an issue that already has most people thoroughly dumfounded.

We elect representatives to boards and councils with the idea they will make hard decisions, after coming to grip with all the facts. We expect them to shake it out, refine it, and then — when necessary or prudent — give that final question to the total electorate.

The Times is on record as favoring a popular vote on the whole sewer question — outfall lines, future industry, final costs.

We are also in favor of the clearest. most forthright statement that ballot can make.

If an outfall line to the Bay is "the only nanswer to this Valley's great sewer problem," then let that be the question that is put before us. Without qualification, without multiple choices, and without any more of the bickering that has gone on for year after tedious year.

The people are sick and tired of "The Great Sewer Issue." Put the damned thing on the ballot, and let's vote! Enough is enough.

BART's bad Bob

Robert Allen is not what you'd call "an average citizen performing average public service.

An admitted member of the far - right John Birch Society, equipped with something less than an endearing personality, Bob Allen is at best "a public service enigma."

But then again, maybe we could use a few more "characters" on public agencies that hardly seem to respond to "normal input" these days.

Bob Allen is the Bay Area Rapid Transit board member who blew the whistle on some high - flying expense accounts being filed by the present and past president of that board. The fact that a Grand Jury failed to indict either or both of those delinquents for their misuse of public funds was not because Livermore's Allen didn't try. "But I haven't given up," he says, candidly.

Candor is Mr. Allen's strong point, at least when it comes to discussing the shortcomings of the agency he serves, and some of its directors Nor does he mind speaking openly about the "power bloc" he alleges controls not only the BART board, but also "a number of other things in the state "He doesn't say what, but he sounds ominous.

Bob Allen has been saying a great many things these days. Some of it gets into print, even the "metropolitan papers" that don't like to see their own billion - dollar blunders laid bare.

As a "railroad cost analyst" Bob Allen could ace probably rested on that one qualification throughout his first BART term, and have reasonable assurance of yet another term.

But Livermore's Bob Allen is rarely quiet, never satisfied, and ever eager to expose the shortcomings of a $1 6 billion transit system that needs lots of exposure.

All of which suggests a second term on that BART board might be just what the doctor, or the taxpayer, ordered.

Dreams

What did you dream last night?

"Me? I never dream."

"It started out to be X - rated. But then I woke up."

"I had another one of those falling dreams. Can't figure out what they mean."

Local people are becoming more interested in their dreams lately — not only in Freudian decoding of dream symbols, but in releasing the creativity and power that dreams have to offer.

Besides the dreams you have while asleep, daydreams and hypnotic "guided fantasies" and even drug trips are examples of the kind of restructured thinking your mind can do when released from its usual channels. People have used controlled dreaming to solve problems, produce works of art, entertain themselves and generally improve their mental and physical well - being.

Scientific studies have shown that almost everyone has two to four dreams a night. The trick is to give yourself pre - sleep suggestions: "Tonight I'll remember my dreams Tonight I'll fly instead of falling."

Then, try to wake up slowly in the morning, holding onto the fading dream images, re - running the dream in your mind until you can recall it well.

Dr. Patricia Garfield of San Francisco, an anthropologist who studied the Senois of Malaysia, has definite rules for dream control derived from her observations of those well - balanced, peaceful people.

Here are some of the rules (from "Creative Dreaming, Ballantine Books, N.Y., $1.75):

If you have a falling dream, glide gently down or even fly; when you get to the bottom of the precipice, have a good time exploring around.

If danger threatens, turn on your attackers, overcome them and demand a gift from them. Invent some "dream friends" to help you out.

Ask questions of the characters in your dreams; they may give you good insights into yourself, or solve a problem for you.

When you suddenly become aware that "this is only a dream," you can continue dreaming while having complete control over the plot — it's called a "lucid dream" and is said to be the ultimate in dream control.

Here are some strikingly similar observations made by anthropologist Carlos Castaneda, who in this passage is quoting Juan Matus, a Yaqui Indian who lives in northern Mexico:

"I am going to teach you right here the first step to power," he said as if he were dictating a letter to me. "I am going to teach you how to set up dreaming."

...He explained that to "set up dreaming" meant to have a concise and pragmatic control over the general situation of a dream, comparable to the control one has over any choice in the desert, such as climbing up a hill or remaining in the shade of a water canyon.

"You must start by doing something very simple," he said. "Tonight in your dreams you must look at your hands." ("Journey to Ixtlan," Simon and Schuster, $2.95.)

Livermore counselors Ruth Gasten and Jim Car- others have exposed many local people to a type of dream control through the "guided fantasies" they offer as part of their self - esteem workshops (call Ruth at 447 - 8487) for details.

And this fall, counselor Jill Kidd will be leading drop - in workshops on dreams and fantasy, tentatively scheduled for the first and third Tuesdays of the month, at Anthropos Foundation (details from 1818 Counseling, 443 - 1818.)

If you're willing to believe that dreaming can be more than a mysterious and sometimes scary movie your brain is spinning while you're asleep then learn more about it!

The week in retrospect

Media lead-in

The prospect of a sizzling, possibly divisive Republican National Convention beginning Monday may now hinge on how the electronic media and the eastern newspaper goliaths choose to cover the nominating exercise.

What seemed a certain knock-down, drag-out confrontation between President Gerald Ford and Ronald Reagan a few days ago, plus some bitter struggles over party planks, has lost some of its explosive potential.

The air started seeping out when New York Sen. James Buckley indicated he "wouldn't mind at all" having his name put in nomination, when media reports speculated that some delegations were holding the "drop Schweiker" axe over Reagan's head and continuing gains in delegate strength by Ford.xgIf Buckley is indeed serious in making a run at it, even as just an "anti-Scheiker" symbol, he'll doubtless siphon untold delegates from Reagan, who champions near-identical social and political philosophies.

It is difficult to perceive, a week hence, Ford being shunted to the status of a lame duck President and the GOP going forth against incredible registration odds and Jimmy Carter with a Reagan - Schweiker ticket.

As often as Ford is lampooned and written - off on every subject from economic policy to greeting visiting brass, the fact remains he has comported himself admirably under the continuing shadow of Watergate and a Democratic congress.

It is the latter reason — a Democratic congress working with a Democratic president — that provides this party of big labor and increasing socialism with the strongest basis for support.

Ford supposedly will go into the convention with enough delegates to win on the first ballot Wednesday night. That pronouncement by a Ford campaign leader, however, could be the first shot in the "bandwagon" propaganda war.

If so. then Ford's army of lieutenants may be scurrying between delegations right up until roll call time.

This is where the media comes in.

If the network commentators and "guest analysts" such as George McGovern (yech!) can keep the "contest" going, it almost certainly will keep Reagan alive and quite possibly prove a divisive influence on the party.

As was brought out again at the Democratic sleep-inducer, one of the worst places to get the mood of the convention is the convention floor.

But with small television sets handy, plus other compact methods of communication, the power blocs can quickly learn how certain issues and races are going.

Thus, the major media powers could have considerable affect as they move among the caucus leaders and party heavyweights

They may decide to play-up the controversy surrounding the liberal Schweiker, whether Ford is going to select a "conservative" vice president or a centrist .. or place all the prospects in perspective with Carter-Mondale.

What we're seeing is a populace that's getting a convention "lead-in" built on the GOP gathering being a certain donnybrook

Now we wonder if the media will try to make it such come hell or high water

Stark's foe answers

Editor, The Times:

The article published in The Times Wednesday, August 11 and labeled "A column by Rep. Fortney H. Stark, Jr., Ninth Congressional District," was a perfect example of a politician talking out of both sides of his mouth.

Mr. Stark manages to insult the intelligence of any thinking man by telling us "It's well to keep in mind that, whenever a large corporation gets a tax break, the taxpaying public has to make up the difference."

Yet all of us know that no corporation truly pays taxes. They are all in the business of providing a commodity of service and rather than pay their taxes they simply pass the costs along to the consuming public.

Later Rep. Stark tells us that his actions in that area have saved the taxpayers about $100 million.

That $100 million appears to be little more than a paper profit for the taxpayer. Meanwhile the congressman appears to have little concern with what he does with the taxpayers money on other fronts.

Two instances come to mind immediately.

November 13, 1975 Rep. Fortney Stark voted to increase the national debt ceiling to $595 billion, a full $100 billion more than the ceiling at the beginning of the year. This additional burden on the American taxpayer is 1,000 times more than what he said he saved us when "20 narrow interest tax break" were allegedly dropped or reduced.

Simple economics teaches us that budget deficits tend to reduce private investment and stimulate inflation.

Earlier in the year, July 30, 1975, Stark helped insulate from inflation 23,000 top level members of the executive and judicial branches of government, and members of Congress, when he voted yes on HR 2559 which provides automatic cost of living increases to this sizeable cadre of the bureaucratic elite.

I'd like to know just how Rep. Stark thought he was helping the American taxpayer when he tied his pair of monumental millstones around their necks.

Twin Valley Club

Editor, The Times:

The Twin Valley Mothers of Twins Club would like to thank you for your excellent coverage of our organization. We received a National Award for outstanding publicity from the National Organization of Mothers of Twins Club, Inc. We were very proud of this honor, due to the efforts of your newspaper.

round the town

A publisher friend in the Feather River country writes — "contrary to rumor, there is no bubonic plague in our area, and Lake Almanor is NOT drying up."

An acquaintance in Yosemite wants to advise our readers that "this national park was never drier, never quieter, and therefore never more inviting for those who don't like water or people."

We checked a popular coastal resort about the chances for booking a reservation, sometime in the next two months.

"Can you come tomorrow?" was the anxious response.

There's trouble in Resort City, folks. Crowd count is way off Campers aren't lined up as in years past. Holiday Inn stock is slumping.

"Lot to do with the dry year we're having," one expert suggests. Talk of "high fire danger" scares hell out of some would - be outdoorsmen. "Vacation this year near your friendly fire station," seems to be the word.

Or in foggy climes like San Francisco. Reports from SF indicate a record - busting year. For tourists, shoppers, dollars. Gathering where it's cold and wet. Great weather.

But down in Monterey County, where the deer and wild pigs often roam, things are quiet, very quiet."

"Saw few deer and even fewer hunters," says a member of our staff who just returned from a vacation in that region. He failed to bring home a buck. But he got a nice tan.

Folks are also picking up tans in the Pt. Reyes portion of the Redwood Empire. But that's not the idea. Folks head for that foggy coast in order to breathe the cold, damp air, fight the ocean breezes. This year they're fighting fires.

"No, no," the Redwood Empire publicist protests. "That was LAST year." This year the fire danger is way down, like about one chance in three. Which are better odds than the Pt. Reyes Holiday Inn has of filling the place this weekend.

"We have lots more water than those dry - land neighbors around Bolinas and Stinson Beach." That word from David Mitchell, newspaper publisher in the wet latitudes of Pt. Reyes and Iverness.

When tourism slumps, the local newspaper suffers. Along with every other business in town. That's the way it is in those "recreational areas."

Some chamber of commerce types are getting downright desperate.

"If you want to send a reporter, photographer, sports columnist etc. up to Chester to take a first hand look at Lake Almanor, please be our guest." That from Chuck Davis, manager of the Chester Chamber of Commerce.

Payola for the press in Feather River Country. It has come to that.

But they have to do something. To offset those "wild stories about bubonic plague," and the like. Bad enough that Yosemite Falls are drying up, forest fires here and everywhere. But now some Big City noostype starts wild stories about the plague. In animals, of all things.

"There has not been one case of human plague in the Chester Lake Almanor region," Chuck Davis says, stoutly, No Legionnaires' Disease there, no sirree You have to travel to Philly for that. All California offers is assorted plagues, fires, thirst. That sort of thing.

"Tell your readers to come immediately," they plead "It's really great here right now, and quiet Oh God how it's quiet "

For those who have always contended "Give me God's country, as God intended it," the summer of '76 is your year. Head for the outdoors. The high country. The great dry swath through the heart of California.

God is having a dry year Holiday Inn is having a fit.

"Come to the land that Francis Drake once claimed for England." That from the Pt. Reyes people. But England wouldn't want it, right now. They have their own Great Drought to worry about. The Thames is drying up.

The times are out of joint. That's for darned sure. The manager of the Shakespeare Inn said that, I think.

"Lord, Lord! methought, what pain it was to drown;

What dreadful noise of water in mine ears!"

The poet wrote that before the Great Drought of 1976. If he put out that kind of nonsense this year, somebody in the Chester Chamber of Commerce would shoot him.

Clearing up Ron

In Ron McNicoll's column Friday a line was omitted inadvertently in the piece about Mayor Robert Philcox. The complete thought should have read that "no prudent banker would lend $57,000 on a vacant 20,000 square feet with no sewer connections."

Also the "DT" mentioned as a source of information and question - raising is not a figure in local politics or banking but was a pseudonymn for a Pleasanton resident.

For Sunday, Aug. 15, 1976

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be careful today if money is being exchanged between you and a friend. A misunderstanding could arise over something silly.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Indecisive people will not wear well today. Don't get seriously involved with anyone who cannot make up her own mind.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You have a pal who is always prying into your affairs. Today, her curiosity is at a higher peak than usual. Watch what you say.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You're prone to take risks today, not so much yourself but on others. There's a good chance you'll back the wrong horse.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) If you're uncertain about how something you want to do might effect others, it's best you don't try it.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) It would be a mistake today to pretend you know something about a matter of which, in truth, you know very little.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Don't let yourself get inveigled into a business situation today with a fast-talking sales type who usually fails at what he attempts.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Someone whose advice you sought will get a little annoyed with you when she sees you do just the opposite of what you agreed upon.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You're not overly industrious today. You'll look for shortcuts for tasks requiring time and patience. Bungled projects are likely.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan 19) If you want your friends to treat you with warmth and respect today, you must treat them in the same manner yourself.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Today you're likely to pack it in just when the end is in sight. To be a winner you'll need more staying power.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You may be asked to relay important information to someone today. Write the message down. Your memory can't be trusted.

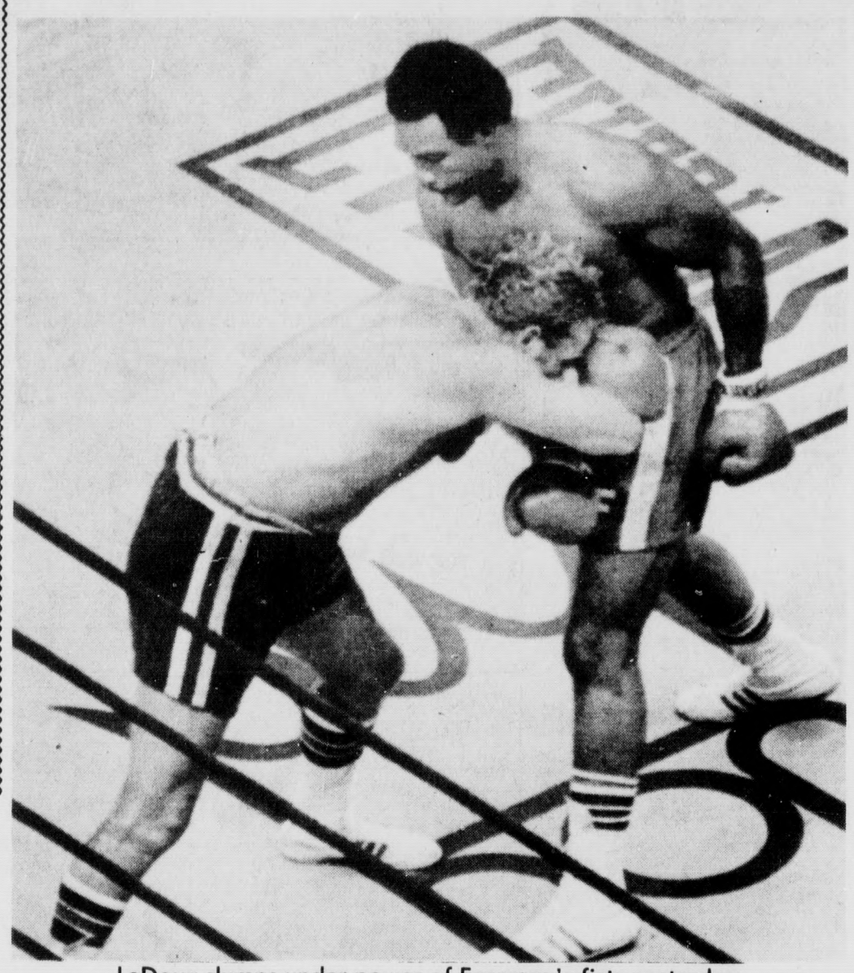
All-Star results coming Tuesday

The Alameda-Contra Costa County All-Star football game at Diablo Valley College in Pleasant Hill ran well past the Times deadline last night.

We regret that we are unable to bring you results of the game in this morning's edition. However, a complete report will appear on the game and its local players in Tuesday's Times.

Foreman batters LeDoux



LeDoux slumps under power of Foreman's fists yesterday

UTICA, N.Y. — Former world heavyweight champion George Foreman battered little-known Scott LeDoux mercilessly and knocked him out with 2:58 gone in the third round of their scheduled 10-round fight Saturday on national television.

George still maintainsa home and gym in Livermore.He started slowly, sizing up his smaller opponent, but landed several effective left jabs in the first round. Foreman, aiming at a shot at regaining the title he lost to Muhammad Ali in Zaire two years ago, became more aggressive in the second round.

Waving his right hand close to his chin, Foreman moved in on LeDoux, 27, and wobbled him with a right-left combination. LeDoux managed to keep his feet during the second round but was bleeding from the nose.

Then, in the third round, Big George began to pummel LeDoux with lefts and rights. LeDoux went down from a right uppercut, the first time the blond-haired LeDoux had ever been knocked from his feet.

Foreman, at 229½ only 4½ pounds heavier than he weighed for his fight against Joe Frazier in April, clearly was the stronger of the two fighters. LeDoux weighed 223.

The knockout was Foreman's 40th in 43 victories. His only loss came at the hands of Ali. It was the fourth loss for LeDoux against 18 victories and one draw.

In his last two outings, against Frazier and LeDoux, Foreman has looked awesome. He stopped Frazier in five rounds.

LeDoux was all but helpless against Foreman. In the first round, he threw several left jabs but they fell short. And when the Fighting Frenchman did get within striking range, it was Foreman who did the damage with crisp left jabs that snapped LeDoux' head back.

Foreman had a slight edge in the first round, then made it clear in the second he would dominate. After being staggered, LeDoux grabbed Foreman, who pushed him to the canvas and onto his knees. Referee Tony Perez halted action briefly but ruled it a slip.

LeDoux' only effective punches in the round were counter-rights that landed several times but didn't appear to bother Foreman.

LeDoux was hurt at the end of the round but answered the bell to the third, apparently undaunted. In his side-to-side — but never backward — style, LeDoux came after Foreman.

Foreman landed several good jabs and left-right combinations. Every punch the former champion threw landed with authority.

LeDoux finally went down as a result of an accumulation of those punches, although it was the right uppercut that finished him.

15 local teams compete at LP

Fifteen local teams will be among a list of 172 players competing in the Livermore City Junior 2-man Best Ball golf tournament at Las Positas Golf Course Monday and Tuesday.

Three Livermore duos will tee up in the boys 16-17 division. Mike White and Wes Morgan, Leo Hoffman and Michael Toy and David Sisti and Mike Culy will be playing on familiar ground, joined by Alamo's Tom Straeter and Carl Richardson.

In the boys 14-15 grouping, Alamo's Mark Nelson will team with Scott Watkins of Danville to join two Pleasanton pairs; Paul LeClaire-Tim Finch and Scott Clifton-David Konecny. Jeff Hoffman of Livermore could become a hero to feminists when he teams with highly-regarded girls junior player Teri Preciado.

Starting the tourney on the tenth tee Monday in the boys 16-17 group are Rick Gielow and John Gilbert of Pleasanton. Dave Najarian and Ray Bluth of Alamo will tee off on the back in the boys 14-1 as will David Olson and Michael Silva of Livermore, Keith Olson and Frank Mona of Pleasanton and John Briggs and Dan Juchau of Pleasanton Doug and Shawn Cassidy of Pleasanton will also compete

Judy Hoffman and Lisa Whitten will comprise the only girls team entered from the valley area.

In addition to the local players, Todd Peterson and Mike Rooney of Sonoma County will be on hand to defend their overall title, won last July with a three-round score of 69-69-74-212.

Keith Clearwater and Dave Thomas, whose 149 gave them fourth in the 14-15 division 13 months ago, will return and become a threat for the overall crown. Clearwater has since finished a strong fourth in the North Coast Section high school title and qualified first for the Northern California Golf Association Junior at Diablo Country Club

Blue, Bando keys in Oakland victory

OAKLAND — Before the A's took the field against Boston yesterday under cloudy skies, catcher Gene Tenace strode to the bat rack and huffed, "What a miserable day."

Afterwards, Tenace altered his comments. "I guess it turned out all right afterall."

What changed his mind wasn't the weather but a 12-hit Oakland outburst and Vida Blue's coasting five-hitter as the A's pounded the catatonic Red Sox, 7-3.

Oakland's win was its eighth straight, one short of the team record while in the Bay Area.

Blue, finally appearing to be at his 1971 form when he won 24 games, struck out nine and didn't walk a man in winning his 11th game in 21 decisions.

Only Fred Lynn, who's fighting to keep his average above .300, solved the Blue mystery. The American League's '75 rookie of the year and most valuable player broke up Vida's no-hitter with a looping homer in the fourth over the right field barrier.

Lynn smashed a two-out double in the ninth to score the final two Sox runs and partly save face for the floundering easterners.

The A's, meanwhile, couldn't have played better defense if manager Chuck Tanner drew the blue prints.

In the second inning, with Oakland already up 3-0, Carl Yastrzemski blasted a deep drive to the 375-foot mark in left-center field. The A's quiet but consistent Joe Rudi pulled one of his patented miracle catches, leaping above the fence and hauling in the drive.

Despite the steady drizzle before the game, "The field was in good shape," according to Rudi.Before the standing ovation of 7,066 had time to sit, Sal Bando snared a Jim Rice liner down the line.

And in the following inning, second baseman Phil Garner looked did his impression of a snowgoose at take-off while spearing Butch Hopson's screamer that had eyes for center field.

"That's the kind of baseball we're capable of playing," explained Rudi of Oakland's timely defense.

While the defense did some talking, the A's offense was shouting. No less than five doubles exploded off Oakland bats.

A pair of two-baggers came in the first when the A's scored three quick runs.

The A's went five-up in the third when they scored twice off the once-invincible Ferguson Jenkins.

The local club concluded its scoring in the fifth after Jim Willoughy relieved Jenkins.

Campaneris greeted Willoughby with a roping double down the line in right.

Campy went to third on a Baylor fly and — to the shock of everyone concerned — scored when Bando bunted perfectly to the left side. The roller trickled down the chalk and meekly nipped the bag as Hobson stood in amazement.

"I haven't done that since college," said a laughing Captain Sal after the game.

"We got the breaks today and they didn't," Blue said afterwards, clutching a chilled beer. "As long as there's a mathematical chance, we're still in the race."

Dublin defeats Warriors

Orlando Rocha and David Krill provided most of the power as the Dublin V.I.P.S defeated the Pleasanton Warriors, 16-4 in a Northern California Beepball Association game yesterday at Pleasanton School.

The game was called after five innings due to heavy rains. However, it had gone long enough for a legal contest.

60-mile an hour winds stop races

High winds ranging up to 60 miles an hour, forced cancellation of Friday night's super modified racing program at Altamont Speedway.

As a result of the cancellation of the program women driver Arlene Hiss was unable to perform for valley racing fans. Hiss, who has taken a back seat to Janet Guthrie among women drivers, was being counted on to boost the attendance at Altamont.

Leon's Libbers top Bob's Babes

A four-run rally in the fifth inning gave Leon's Libbers a 6-5 victory over Bob's Babes in Livermore Area Women's Recreation Softball action Thursday.

The rally provided Leon's with a 6-3 advantage and they held on to it for the rest of the contest.

Carol Lamonte led the winners with two hits and scored once. Leon's belted seven hits to 10 for the losers.

Annie Pardue and Lyla Tasell each belted three hits to spark Bob's Babes. Tasell scored one run.

Hexcel Honeys and Irby's Mike Store fought to a thrilling 3-3 tie in eight innings. Hexcel scored a run in the seventh stanza to tie the contest.

Debbie Jost led Hexcel with three hits and Eileen Patine added two. Hexcel clubbed 13 hits.

Mary Lou Reichrouth paced Irby's with two hits and scored once. Barbara Weber added one hits and tallied twice. Irby's belted eight hits.

Buckley's Hustlers smashed 16 hits in taking a 16-5 victory over Gibson Electric in the final game.

ALL REPLIES HELD IN STRICT CONFIDENCE

An Equal Opportunity Employer

With the Giants, things were a downer for Von Joshua.

Joshua wields hot bat for Milwaukee nine

To paraphrase the remarks of one who found his name misplaced in the obituary section, rumors of the demise of Von Joshua's baseball career have been greatly exaggerated.

The San Francisco Giants' leading hitter a year ago, Joshua was sold to the Milwaukee Brewers in early June after his once-lofty batting average slipped to .263.

Immediately, the cry went up from deliberatly iconoclastic members of the City's press corps that the American League was just the place for a shallow-playing outfielder He could become a designated hitter. Too bad the Giants hadn't traded him in the offseason when his value was higher, they moaned.

Joshua, who played a supporting role in all-time home run king Hank Aaron's final Bay Area appearance this week at the Oakland Coliseum, takes the comments in stride.

"Hell, I can't respond to something like that," he said between turns in the batting cage Thursday evening. "But, I guess you could say it's a new start over here."

The 28-yeur old Oakland native blames the current Giant operation for his rapid descent after a meteoric rise from obscurity — he was never a regular in five seasons with the Los Angeles Dodgers — to a .318 average last season.

"I was happy to get out of there," he recalled. "I really wanted to stay, but the situation with (manager Bill) Rigney was intolerable."

He continued, "From day one of spring training, it was obvious I wasn't his kind of ball player. I didn't have anything at all against the man — he made the first move."

Although glad to escape the bickering that has characterized San Francisco this season, Joshua has obviously been changed by the experience.

"The Brewers," he said, taking the journeyman's oath of office, "are just another team."

Despite the fact that a recent hot streak (13-for-37) brought his average up to only .256, Joshua subscribes to the theory that the National League is stronger than the American.

"I don't like to compare, but the National League is a bit stronger," he admitted. "The pitching is different, the umpiring is different and there's a whole different style of play."

Joshua believes his lot will improve after a season in the American League. Although not singling out any particular pitchers who give him trouble, Joshua, who faced the Oakland A's as a pinchhitter in the 1974 World Series, defined the league's pitching philosophy.

"It's definitely a curve ball league," he said. "The pitchers just don't challenge you — and I'm basically a fast ball hitter."

Thursday night, Joshua brought his ten-game average to .352 with an opposite field double into the left field corner that chased A's reliever Stan Bahnsen and drove in a run when Campy Campaneris' throw to the plate was off line, forcing Gene Tenace to lunge unsuccessfully at Brewer pinch hitter Bill Sharp.

Two pitches later, the Castlemont High School graduate scored when youthful shortstop Robin Yount dropped a soft single 30 feet past the infield dirt in shallow left.

However, Joshua is not totally pleased with his hot spell.

"I'm hitting the ball pretty hard," he agreed. "But I'm only getting one hit a game."

The Brewers, like the Giants a last-place team with no light at the end of the tunnel, will take it.

Mat gridders select Chabot

John Walden and Ron Freeman of Granada, both members of the Alameda County All-Star football team, will attend Chabot College this fall.

Freeman, a tackle and Walden, a quarterback and defensive back, both were key figures in the Matadors' drive to the East Bay Athletic League crown last season.

Seven other Alameda County All-Stars will also attend Chabot. They include Alan Regier of Mt. Eden, Jim Dillon of Moreau, Ed Sincoff of Sunset, Frank Carlos of James Logan, Tom Riewerts of Marina and Joe Thomas of Mt. Eden.

Kevin Turner and Sean Sullivan, both of Mission San Jose, will go to the University of Pacific. Lineman Mike MacLeod of Mt Eden will attend Weber State where he will play under former Cal-State Hayward mentor Jim Criner.

Valley swimmers capture crown

Pleasanton Valley used superior depth and an abundance of individual talent to capture the Valley Swimming League championships yesterday at San Ramon National pool.

The winners garnered 23 first places and picked up a host of seconds and thirds to ice the victory. Pleasanton Valley scored 499 points to finsh over 100 points ahead of second-place Sunset. Sunset tallied 398½ points. San Ramon was third with 168½ points, Pleasanton Meadows fourth with 159 1/2, Del Valle fifth with 170½ and Briar Hill sixth with 52 markers.

Pleasanton Valley displayed its strength in the freestyle and medley relays in both the girls' and boys' competition. The champs captured 17 first places in the relays and eight seconds. They picked up one third place.

Round Table tops Nazarene Church

Round Table Pizza scored four runs in the third inning to take a 9-3 victory over Nazarene Church in Livermore Area Men's Recreation Softball action Thursday.

Kip McDonald led the winners with three hits and sparked the winning rally. Pitcher Bill Geyer allowed nine hits but no runs until the seventh stanza for the winners.

McDonald led the Round Table RBI parade with two.

Jolly Liquors shutout Red Carpet Realty 4-0 in another recreation contest.

Fred Soto belted a bases-loaded triple in fifth inning as the winners scored four times. Hits by Bob Borgessm Mike Bradshaw and Daryl Irvin set up Soto's big blast.

Joe Benjamin, Dennis Cradock and Don Lamostz each had two hits for Red Carpet Realty.

In the final game Hexcel smashed the O-Zones 12-3, getting 22 hits in the process. The losers got just six hits.

Doug Dickinson led the winners with four hits. Tony Tex and Greg Baker each had two hits for the O-Zones.

Bay air control blows Dow's new plant plan

By BRUCE ADAMS
Lesher News Bureau

PITTSBURG—The head of the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District has denied the Dow Chemical Company's application for the first phase of a $500 million petrochemical complex near Pittsburg.

D. J. Callaghan, BAAPCD control officer, issued the denial Thursday, some five weeks after announcing preliminary findings indicating the project would violate air quality standards.

If Callaghan's ruling stands, it could become a landmark decision halting future industrial growth in the state.

Paul Hughey, head of the Contra Costa Development Association, termed the Dow project a "key."

"A lot of companies are watching and if Dow can't make it, they figure it's not worth trying expansion in California," Hughey said.

Ted McHugh, BAAPCD spokesman, agrees in part.

"It could effectively eliminate any major industrial additions to the Bay Area," he said.

Dow's western division manager of health and environmental affairs, Bill Beamer, said the firm has several alternatives.

When reached for comment Thursday, he still had not seen Callaghan's decision, but he said "We're not going to give up."

Dow could appeal the ruling to the district's hearing board or re-apply to Callaghan.

"It's too early to decide," Beamer said.

Callaghan's decision was based on the effect air emissions from a $50 million styrene plant — a small part of the total project — would have on air quality in the nine-county Bay Area.

Specifically, air pollution officials estimated that Dow's emissions, while within district limits, would react chemically in the atmosphere and form oxidants — more commonly known as photochemical smog.

Based on the distrcit's monitoring stations at Pittsburg and Fairfield, the air in the vicinity of the Dow project is dangerously near the allowable oxidant level.

According to Tom Perardi, of the district's research and planning staff, oxidant levels were exceeded 10 times at the Pittsburg staton last year and 15 times at Fairfield.

More critcally however, he said there's probably no place in the nine-county Bay Area where the facility could be built and meet district regulations governing overall air quality.

But the district's interpretation of overall air quality standards comes under review Sept. 1.

The district's Board of Directors has called a public hearing to discuss the regulation calling for the denial of construction and operating permits if a facility "significantly" interferes with the attainment of clean air — the regulation at issue in the Dow project.

Perardi said the BAAPCD considers a facility "significant" if air emissions can be detected by instruments measuring air quality.

Beamer said Dow's fight would be based on "the criteria for 'significance.'"

The Sept. 1 hearing is also expected to attract at least 1,000 construction workers.

Dow officials have said the project would generate 1,000 construction jobs over an eight-year period.

Lou Thomas, of the Contra Costa Building and Construction Trades Council, took a shot at the district and said "It's these type of things that are causing 90 per cent of our problems with unemployment."

He said the building trades in Contra Costa County have a 27 per cent unemployment rate, about 3,000 workers.

"We need some changes or amendments in the present regulations or we might as well pack our bags and go somewhere else," he said.

Thomas said he's written to Governor Brown asking for a "face-to-face" meeting on the Dow project.

"We're tired of him running around the country saying his number one priority is jobs while his appointed aides do the opposite," Thomas said in a reference to Tom Quinn, Brown's appointee to head the state Air Resouces Board.

The ARB mandates air quality standards to the state's air pollution control districts.

Environmentalists saw Callaghan's decision as a victory of sorts.

Bob Rutemoeller, of the Sierra Club, said the Dow complex is seen as "the first foot in the door towards rather massive industrial growth in a sensitive area."

The Dow proposal includes expansion of the existing Pittsburg site and new facilites across the Sacramento River near Collinsville in Solano County.

Rutemoeller said the Sierra Club was concerned with preserving the Suisun Marsh area as well as wildlife and fish.

"There's also the threat of a significant and potentially adverse effect on agriculture in the Delta," he said.

Last May Callaghan denied construction permits to the Atlantic Richfield Co. for a $1 billion complex, similar to Dow's, near Rio Vista in Solano County.

Some officials didn't take the Arco denial that seriously since the application included some flagrant violations of air quality standards and was viewed as a 'feeler.'

Arco has hired the Stanford Research Institute to study air quality in the Solano area, but has sat tight on re-applying. The decison was never appealed.

Environmentalists have been critical of both the Dow and Arco proposals, claiming the expected arrival next year of Alaskan crude oil could spur uncontrolled industrial growth.

The Pittsburg plant is Dow's largest west coast facility. Dow has additional plants in Torrance and Fresno.

The plant would produce materials used in soap, paper, insecticides, insulation, cleaning solvents, plywood, aluminum, and steel.

Dow presently ships these materials to the west coast market from plants on the Gulf Coast.

Officials say the complex would provide for 1,000 permanent jobs.

SAFEWAY CENTER-CUT-LOIN PORK CHOPS

Safeway Pork Chops A REAL VALUE

1. Safeway buys selected lean loins.
2. Safeway sells true center cuts of the loin - no ends mixed in.
3. Safeway sells rib chops and loin chops all at the same low price.
4. Safeway pork chops are cut from corn-fed eastern porkers...you can taste the difference.

$1.58 Lb.

SOUTHERN PORK CHOPS

4 to 6 loin chops
1 medium onion, sliced
¼ cup Nu-made peanut butter
½ cup Lucerne milk
1 tsp. Crown Colony salt
⅛ tsp. Crown Colony pepper
½ cup Town House cream of mushroom soup
1 tsp. Worcestershire sauce

Brown the chops on both sides in small amount of oil. Pour off the excess fat and return chops to the pan. Top each chop with a slice of onion, mix the peanut butter with remaining ingredients and pour on the chops, cover and cook for about 30 minutes over a slow heat. Serves 4 to 6.

WHAT TO DO IN A PINCH?

How many times have you been in the middle of a recipe and found you didn't have a key ingredient? Here are some common substitutions that you may want to keep handy for the next time it happens to you.

INGREDIENT SUBSTITUTIONS

Ingredient Amount	Substitution
1 tablespoon flour (used as thickener)	½ tablespoon cornstarch, potato starch, rice starch, or arrowroot starch, or 1 tablespoon quick-cooking tapioca
1 cup sifted all-purpose flour	1 cup unsifted all-purpose flour minus 2 tablespoons
1 cup sifted cake flour	⅞ cup sifted all-purpose flour, or 1 cup minus 2 tablespoons sifted all-purpose flour
1 cup corn syrup	1 cup sugar plus ¼ cup liquid*
1 cup honey	1¼ cups sugar plus ¼ cup liquid*
1 ounce chocolate	3 tablespoons cocoa plus 1 tablespoon fat
1 cup butter	1 cup margarine, or ⅞ to 1 cup hydrogenated fat plus ½ teaspoon salt, or ⅞ cup lard plus ½ teaspoon salt
1 cup whole milk	1 cup reconstituted nonfat dry milk plus 2½ teaspoons butter or margarine, or ½ cup evaporated milk plus ½ cup water, or ¼ cup sifted dry whole milk powder plus ⅞ cup water
1 cup milk	3 tablespoons sifted regular nonfat dry milk plus 1 cup minus 1 tablespoon water, or 1/3 cup instant nonfat dry milk plus 1 cup minus 1 tablespoon water
1 cup buttermilk or sour milk	1 tablespoon vinegar or lemon juice plus enough sweet milk to make 1 cup (let stand 5 minutes), or 1¾ teaspoons cream of tartar plus 1 cup sweet milk
1 teaspoon baking powder	¼ teaspoon baking soda plus ⅝ teaspoon cream of tartar,
1 tablespoon active dry yeast	1 package active dry yeast, or 1 compressed yeast cake
1 whole egg	2 egg yolks, or 3 tablespoons plus 1 teaspoon thawed frozen egg, or 2 tablespoons and 2 teaspoons dry whole egg powder plus an equal amount of water
1 egg yolk	3½ teaspoons thawed frozen egg yolk or 2 tablespoons dry egg yolk plus 2 teaspoons water
1 egg white	2 tablespoons thawed frozen egg white, or 2 teaspoons dry egg white plus 2 tablespoons water

*Use whatever liquid is called for in the recipe
